Agriculture Master plan

This project involved members of the RBA, RBED and a team of agricultural experts from the North West University

- Many instruments, from soil samples and satellite photos to focus groups with Bafokeng farmers, were used to gather data about various practices, challenges and opportunities for Bafokeng agriculture. This project will be completed in 2013, when the Agriculture plan is formally unveiled.

Bafokeng History

- Bafokeng Digital Archive

The screenshot displays the website for the Royal Bafokeng Nation. The header features a logo with a traditional hat and a map of the region, with the text "Royal Bafokeng Nation" and "Where are we?". The main navigation includes "Home", "Blog", and "Contact us". The central content area is titled "Welcome to the Royal Bafokeng Digital Archive" and features a photograph of a traditional wooden sculpture. To the right of the image is a paragraph describing the archive's purpose: "The design and intention of the Bafokeng archiving process is going to be centred on the needs of the community that will generate the archive and be served by it. This archive is envisaged to be more than records in the form of objects and media. It will be a dynamic ongoing process that continues to 'reach out' both through accessing materials and through providing access to these materials. It is hoped that this archive will eventually become the heart of the proposed Bafokeng People's Centre. Bafokeng are descendants of the Sotho-Tswana people who, just over a thousand years ago...". The right sidebar contains a search box, a list of archive categories (Collection, Coverage, People, Resource type, Subjects), and a section for recent blog posts, including "The Golden Order Saved by the bell" and "Lost we forget... is this where it all started? Coffee break".
